Independent investing.

An investment and retirement service you can rely on

We're proudly independent of banks and large financial institutions, with no shareholders demanding short-term results. That means we never have to compromise on delivering our goals, and can act in the long-term interests of both you and your clients. Fidelity has been in the asset management market for over half a century and manages over $862 billion in client assets.* This adds stability to our own balance sheet and high liquidity, so you know your clients' money is in expert hands.

- 2. Ongoing fees
A percentage or monetary amount for an entire portfolio (or different fees for different accounts)

A specified (one-off) fee that makes it easy to charge for advice on assets already held by your client

Share dealing – with competitive costs

- Trade in an extended range of assets including ETFs, Investment Trusts, equities, bonds and CDIs
- For buys, sells, switches and rebalances placed by you or by your appointed Discretionary Fund Manager, and for other regular transactions there is no dealing charge
- Trades are executed at least once per day for maximum price efficiency
- Other dealing charges may apply when your client trades in Exchange Traded Investments

These charges replace the dealing fee of 0.1% for transactions in Investment Trusts and ETPs when your account moves to our new administration system; the existing charge will still apply until accounts move to the new administration system.
