3 The shares you are moving into your Fidelity account

Please list each asset and the number of shares to be transferred. Please note that you will need to complete a corporate nominee transfer form per asset instruction. These documents are to be obtained from the Registrar directly. Please ensure these forms, along with any cheque payments as advised by each Registrar, are also sent with this document to the above address.

Should any of these assets pay income, we will follow your existing preferences for income payments on your account. If you are opening a new account, then income payments will be automatically paid to cash if you manage your own investments through our Personal Investing website, or reinvested for you if you manage your investments through an adviser of intermediary website.

If there is a corporate action on any investment you own, you will have to be registered for our online services to be notified of the event by secure message. You will be able to take up any potential election through your online Fidelity account. As our corporate actions service is online only, we do not notify, or allow participation, through any other method.

I understand that the information I provide on this application form will be processed in accordance with Fidelity's data protection statement contained in the Client Terms. We cannot change beneficiary ownership of stocks by way of transferring into your account with us. Therefore, named shareholder(s) with the registrar MUST match the name of the owner on the Fidelity Investment Account. If this is not the case, your request will be rejected, and will only be accepted when the names on the registrar account and investment account match. You can change names by contacting the registrar, alternatively, you can open an investment account ensuring the name(s) match the account held with the registrar. You can do this online; you'll need to complete and send us the Joint Holder Supplement Form if there is more than one account holder.
